Announcement

Heidelberg, 19 July 2010

Successful Certification of PROGEN Biotechnik GmbH

For months, PROGEN's entire team was busy documenting all its activities and workflows. Finally, in July 2010 the document PROGEN yearned for, the EN ISO 13485:2003 + AC:2007 certificate for the scope "development, production and distribution of in vitro diagnostic devices, diagnostic devices for research use only and research reagents" was awarded by the mdc medical devices certification GmbH.

This certificate acknowledges our ambitious efforts to continuously improve our performance, and indicates our commitment to customer service, quality control and improved care. It comprises the quality management system that defines activities and workflows for the implementation of the quality policy of our company. Existing processes were adapted to comply with accepted standards. All employees worked together with endurance, diligence and confidence to finally reach our common goal.

The certificate demonstrates to our customers and partners that PROGEN is prepared to provide high-quality standard products. And it is the award for our efforts. A big Thank You to all our employees!
